Mississippi Landing drops Hancock site

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Developers who had planned a $100 million casino complex off Interstate 10 and Highway 603 have let their option lapse on a 600-acre tract for the development in Hancock County. One of the project's developers, David R. Belding, said Tuesday the "Mississippi Landing" idea has been dropped. Its investors are devoting their efforts, instead, to winning approval of a two-casino complex on the Bay of St. Louis in Harrison County, Belding said. Just last week, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors agreed to ask the State Gaming Commission to declare the Mississippi Landing site in Hancock County as eligible for casino development.

Board President Michael Ladner said the request for such a declaration didn't stem from the developers, but from the belief among supervisors that the site should be approved for development.

Belding concurred that the developers had "absolutely nothing" to do with the supervisors' decision to ask for the Gaming Commission's blessing on the site. In fact, he said, it "came as a total surprise to us."

Belding said the five Nevada developers who had once envisioned the Mississippi Landing complex have "no intention of doing anything" with the site, because the Gaming Commission's staff has taken the position, informally, that it is not eligible for gaming.

He said the developers let their option lapse on the proper-

New 4-H Club forms in Hancock

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Hancock County's newest 4-H Club has been organized and accepting members for the past three months, Darlene Underwood, Extension agent said.

The club's name is Boots & Buckles, with Wade and Pat Ladner and Ray and Cindy Spiers as leaders.

Ladner said Tuesday, the club's membership is now at 34 and growing each week.

Meetings are held the third Monday, 7 p.m. at the Neacise Crossing Community Center, on Highways 603 and 53.

Underwood said, "I am very pleased to have this new 4-H Club in the county and I am really impressed with their enthusiasm."

Projects already underway include participation in July's 4-H District Horse Show, a trail ride, a livestock member chain, participation in livestock shows, etc.

A hot dog cookout was held at their last meeting.

Two club members received door prizes at the last two meetings.

Membership is open to Hancock County boys and girls ages 8 to 18 and is free, Underwood said.

Underwood said, "4-H now offers some 42 different project areas from aerospace to wildlife."

The primary projects thus far of the new Hancock County 4-H Club are horses and cattle. Other projects are being explored.

For further information, call Underwood at 467-5456; Ladner, 255-9679, or Spiers, 255-9295.

The Hancock County 4-H program is an agency of the United Way of South Mississippi.

Galaxy backers may try again

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Backers of the proposed Galaxy Casino say they may try again for permits it needs to locate near Lakeshore on South Beach Boulevard.

"We may resubmit our permit to the Bureau of Marine Resources with some changes," said Galaxy investor Alvin Perry of California.

Based on BMR's recommendation, the state Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks refused last week to reconsider its previous rejection of Galaxy's permits.

Commission considering Henderson Point casino

BY MARY G. SEILEY
A controversial casino site at Henderson Point is up for Gaming Commission action later this month -- moving from the back burner to the front burner hotter than ever.

"All this time, we've been preparing for them and we're ready," said Nonnie DeBardeleben, leader of a group of opponents. "We're still here and we're still fighting, and we're ready to take them on."

Spectrum's plans for a 30,000-square-foot casino last year drew some 1,000 opponents, and some supporters, to a public hearing at Gulfshore Baptist Assembly last fall.

Opponents contended that the proposed location, just south of the Bay St. Louis bridge in Harrison County, is residential in nature and inappropriate for gambling. Traffic generated by the facility, and environmental concerns, were two points argued by opponents.

Spectrum contends the site is essentially commercial, and its project would be an economic boon to the area. The developers promised to create over 700 permanent jobs with a $15 million payroll, giving more than $2 million annually to Pass Christian Schools and adding $20 million to the Harrison County property tax rolls.

After the public hearing, the Harrison County Board of Supervisors reaffirmed its opposition to the project. Little has been heard of the plans since then.

Spectrum officials did not respond to a request for comment on the most recent plans for the facility, and the pending appearance before the Gaming Commission.

But DeBardeleben said her group has tracked Spectrum's plans since last fall's public hearing. DeBardeleben is chairman of the Concern Citizens to Protect the Isles and the Point, a group she said numbers around 1,500.

The group has hired an attorney and environmental consultants, and is planning a coordinated program of opposition when the Gaming Commission considers the matter June 30, at Treasure Bay Hotel in Biloxi.

Spectrum's plans apparently haven't gotten the formal environmental clearances that the Gaming Commission recently began to require before it will consider site approvals.

Commission executive director Chuck Patton said Tuesday the application will be considered anyway. "They tell us they'll be prepared by this meeting" to satisfy questions of environmental clearance, he said of Spectrum officials.

Patton said site approval by state and federal environmental officials doesn't necessarily have to precede action by the Gaming Commission. The commission wants to know, however,

Courthouse

Committee recommends new facility

BY MARY G. SEILEY
The Hancock County Courthouse Committee has "more or less given up" on the idea of modifying the courthouse to meet existing and future demands for space.

Instead, Committee Chairman Paul Vegas said Tuesday he and committee member Dave McDonald have been asked to scout around Bay St. Louis for some property to buy or lease, to satisfy courthouse needs until a new facility can be built.

Construction of a new facility, he said, may take up to eight years, once a decision is made to launch such a project. That time frame includes a search for four to five acres of property suitable for a new courthouse.

In the meantime, Vegas said, additional space is needed downtown for court and county administrative functions now housed in the courthouse on Main Street.

Last week, the committee was given a study from Gulf Regional Planning Commission outlining probable space needs for the next 20 years. The projected the county population could soar from 31,000 in 1990 to some 80,000 residents by 2020.

GRPC staff said the existing courthouse was "planned for different functions that took place decades ago. The present facilities are overcrowded in the high use areas."

The key reason for overcrowding at the courthouse, planners said, is the need for storage and equipment space. And while they said some reshuffling could ease that problem, the county still needs major additional facilities, the planners said.

Additional courtrooms are needed, along with judges

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Christian Nirvana

Nirvana is the most ironic name Kurt Cobain could have given his musical group. Nirvana: the final beatitude that transcends suffering, karma and samsara.

Kurt Cobain's Nirvana: a musical trio that is totally immersed in the sad, the depressing, even the despairing. Its very name runs counter to everything his morose personality and his grunge music stand for and express.

A dense, dreary and weary form of punk rock, Nirvana's grunge sound reaches deep into the boiling cauldron of worries, divorce, violence, drugs, discouragement and cyclical despair of people in their 20s.

Nirvana's strength is rooted in the fact that grunge resonates the pain, anger and confusion of these grinding issues so strongly that it strikes a nerve center in many young people who in turn become undying devotees of the grunge sound.

That Kurt Cobain was so skilled at creating the gutbucket expression of all the painful, melancholic demons torturing the young had a lot to do with his own life. He was merely echoing the tortures, sadness and despair of his own innards.

Troubled from his earliest childhood by emotional turmoil, bounced around from relative to relative, he was finally left to his own devices soon after his parents' divorce at age 10.

When his boyhood acquaintances were out playing sports, Kurt was painting, rambling in the woods, on the docks or at lumber mills, somehow seeking a life beyond work.

In this bewildering, pained context, Cobain allowed himself to slip toward despair and suicide until he all but dispatched himself in Rome with a near-lethal combination of barbiturates and alcohol.

Within days back in the States, he locked himself in a room with four guns and 25 boxes of ammunition, threatening to kill himself. This, too, was an aborted attempt.

At length, in another few days, hiding away in his Seattle apartment, he put a shotgun to his head and terminated his troubled life. It was six days before the awful deed was known.

Wendy O'Connor, his anguished, afflicted mother, realized her greatest fears when he was found dead.

"Now he's gone and joined that stupid club. I told him not to join that stupid club," she said in reference to the untimely deaths of Jimi Hendrix and other young rock stars.

We can appreciate what his followers are saying about the enormity of their loss and the baleful void in their hearts due to the departure of their dear friend.

Many of us will debate to what extent he can be considered "a great artist," as he is characterized by his friends. On the other hand, we consider it hardly worth debating that his music was too negative and without any redeeming ray of hope.

As in the case of so many teen-idols, dating back to the star-crossed Jimmy Dean, an almost messiah-type of elevation is bestowed upon rock stars who die very young, no matter how unworthy of imitation their lifestyles may have been.

Far be it from us to condemn Kurt Cobain. To the contrary, we hope and pray that the hand of Jesus was to be found somewhere in the waning, frenzied moments of his life.

Suffice it so say that here is a strong correlation between not having Jesus and having to reach out for stars.

Dance Club promotes country music

Special to the Echo
 The Boots 'n' Bows Country/Western Dance Club, Inc. is a not-for-profit social organization whose purpose is to promote country/western music and dance. We do this two ways.

First, the Boots 'n' Bows offers to the public quality low-cost country/western dance lessons in cooperation with the City of Gulfport Parks and Recreation Department.

Our lessons are smoke- and alcohol-free and are open to all family members. We have our lessons every Thursday at 7 p.m. at the West Side Community Center, Hwy. 90, Gulfport. (This is our primary method of raising operating funds.)

Second, we have a dance exhibition team available for performances at a sponsoring organization's function. The team is made up of club members who like to put some sparkle, flair, and showmanship into their dancing.

Although we pride ourselves on putting on a quality show, we are not professional performers.

The dance exhibition team can perform from spontaneous through fully choreographed and narrated demonstrations of country/western dancing ranging in length from 15 minutes to 1 hour and can include audience participation (e.g. teaching a basic line or couples dance or two).

Longer programs can be arranged, but a program under 15 minutes is not practical. Our narration for the performance can be tailored to include comments about the sponsoring activity, other on-site activities and vendors, special announcements, etc. We can provide our own semi-professional sound equipment.

Our requests are few: 1) that there be no cost to the members of Boots 'n' Bows who partici-

The state takes the position that the facility would require too much dredging, and would spoil the nature of recreational fishing in the area.

State officials also are concerned that the Galaxy site is near protected seagrass beds.

Perry said some aspects of the Galaxy proposal have changed since BMR initially reviewed the application and sent a negative recommendation to the commission for action.

Perry said investors haven't decided whether to redesign the project to eliminate the state officials' objections. "We don't know yet. That's not been determined," Perry said.

ty at issue, to devote full attention to winning approval for the Pine Hills development nearby, in Harrison County. Two casinos, Gold Strike and Lone Star, are proposed for a tract bordering the Bay of St. Louis next to the DuPont property off DeLisle Road.

Ladner said even if the Mississippi Landing group has abandoned the Hancock site, the board still wants to see it approved by the state as a permissible site. "Maybe somebody else will pick it up," he said of the potential development. "I'm sure if it was approved, somebody would jump on it in a hurry."

Ladner said the board had been motivated, in part, by pending plans for yet another casino development in Harrison County: the Royal Casino development at I-10 and U.S. 49 on Bayou Bernard.

All three of the potential developments have prompted intense debate over the state law that governs where casinos may locate. A common thread key in the controversies is the sites' proximity, and access, to I-10.

Mississippi Landing's site was the first of the three surrounded by controversy -- it would be directly accessible from the interstate. While its proponents insisted the casino itself would be afloat in the Bay of St. Louis, opponents insisted it would be in the Jourdan River.

Approval of the site, the opponents argued, would open other rivers, bayous and inland waterways to casino development.

Leading the battle against Mississippi Landing was an association of casino owners, who contended they had invested millions to comply with state law and build their gaming facilities in the Mississippi Sound or on the Bay of St. Louis.

As the controversy solidified, Mississippi Landing partners optioned the Pine Hills site in nearby Harrison County. The casino operators' association opposed it too, arguing that developers merely planned to dredge itself a site off the Bay to get close enough to the interstate to have access from it.

The Gaming Commission approved the site, however, and the casino operators sued to block the development. The developers won the lawsuit in February, but the casino operators have appealed to the Supreme Court.

Tuesday, the Gaming Commission turned down the third casino proposal that sparked such complaints. Royal Casino had wanted to locate on Bayou Bernard, on property owned by the Harrison County school district. The commission voted 2-1 against Royal's plans, concurring with the negative recommendation from the commission's executive director, Paul Harvey.

chambers, court reporter offices, witness rooms, conference rooms, a bailiff room, restrooms, a prosecuting attorney's office, and separate Chancery and Circuit court department spaces, GRPC said.

The study noted that the county's court and administrative functions now occupy some 37,000 square feet in four downtown buildings. The county will need up to 90,000 square feet of space by 2020, the study said, to meet projected needs.

In addition, county officials must meet federal requirements for handicapped access to its facilities.

A minimum of two acres will be needed for a multi-level facility, or five acres for a single level facility, the planners estimated.

If the county decides to build a new courthouse, heated debate is expected over where it will be.

Vegas said an "emotional" line is being drawn between those who want the courthouse to remain downtown, and others who think it should be on Highway 90, or in a centrally located section of the county.

GRPC said state law may dictate that the courthouse be no further than one mile from the county jail. They said a legal opinion is needed to see what general areas may be considered for the new facility.

er, that environmental clearance isn't "an absolute impossibility," he added.

Patton said Gaming Commission officials had asked Spectrum to bring their plans for Henderson Point forward, to settle the site issue once and for all. Citing "heated emotions" on both sides of the question, Patton said the commission sees "no sense in dragging it out" for months more.

He said the staff hasn't made a recommendation for approval or disapproval of the site, but will do so after listening to the arguments at the June meeting.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Claude Green of Bay St. Louis received a shock last week while out walking.

Claude called to tell me that he and his dog were walking for exercise around the Bay St. Louis Oxidation Pond.

The walk turned into a desperate run as out of the water came a big alligator.

Apparently the alligator was seeking the dog for breakfast.

I am told there are several people who walk and jog around the oxidation pond, and some walk their dogs.

According to Green, it is not good to take a dog along, and I don't think even he will be walking anymore around the pond. I must say he was a bit excited when he called to tell me of the incident.

Time for me to get on the 'one-eyed' vehicles traveling our roadways and highways.

One night last week, from Interstate 10 to Highway 90 on Highway 603, I counted five autos with only one headlight operating.

This is only a few miles, so one can gather there must be hundreds of vehicles using Hancock County roads with unsafe equipment.

Highway 603 is already very dangerous and even more so since it is under construction.

Some one, two or three law enforcement officers could have a 'field day', or should I say 'field night' issuing citations for 'one-eyed' vehicles.

One of these nights someone is going to be seriously injured or possibly killed because of a 'one-eyed' vehicle.

In looking back at my school years, and it has been several years ago, I can remember a teacher who I felt gave that little extra to his students.

I have a feeling the teacher who will be most remembered by 1994's Gulfview fifth grade class will be Miss Laura Miller.

Miss Miller retires after 43 years as a teacher, and I could see her dedication in the faces and actions of her last class of 26 hopeful fifth graders.

I would like to congratulate Miss Miller, and I wish her the best in her retirement years.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

M/E/C

Take the initiative to cut government waste

Of all the bills people must pay, what is most likely the highest bill of the month?

Taxes.

Most people don't think of taxes as bills, but they are. They're regular payments to federal, state and local governments through the dollars we make and the dollars we spend.

Why then, do so many people sit idly by watching their hard-earned dollars being spent, without taking part in the process?

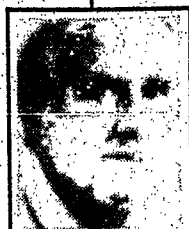

Maybe it's because people feel helpless to do anything about government waste. They feel ignored despite their constant demands for better use of these dollars.

This year, Mississippians have a way to be heard. In fact, they have a way to make changes on their own — whether the legislators hear them or not.

There is a remedy that allows voters to enact laws and changes in government by signing petitions to place new ideas for change on the ballot. In a way, the voters become the legislators at the polls.

State moving from staunch Democratic to Republican

It's still incredible to this longtime observer of politics in Mississippi that what was once the staunchest one-party Democratic state now is possibly closer to being classified as Republican state, at least from the standpoint of which party controls the governor's office.

Certainly nearly three decades it has become very clear that the anti-Republican phobia that gripped Mississippians for 100 years after the Civil War has been forever buried among the relics of the past.

Now it is not only respectable for candidates for public office to identify themselves as Republicans, but in some parts of the state is required for success.

Public opinion polls which have measured whether Mississippians regard themselves as Democrats or Republicans (or independents) over the past 10 years or so have shown the once clear-cut edge for Democrats gradually slipping away.

In fact, when 600 registered voters were asked in a poll by marketing Research Institute, based in Pensacola, last September how they thought of themselves: Democrat, Republican or Independent, the totals (factoring in how they lean) showed the state was 43 percent Democrat, and 41 percent Republican, and 15 percent Independent.

That shows how narrowly divided along political lines the state has become. And if anything, judging from the seeming unpopularity of President Clinton in Mississippi, the trend has shifted more to the Republicans.

The major political question which will be asked more as we move closer to next year's gubernatorial race is: Can a candidate running on the Democratic banner be elected?

Naturally, at this stage, that question concerns in large measure Secretary of State Dick Molpus, who makes no secret about gearing up for the race for governor as a Democrat. Barring some surprise entry emerging, Molpus has the Democratic nomination locked up.

No doubt Molpus is already analyzing his strongest and weakest areas and conducting a mythical race versus Gov. Kirk Fordice in November, 1995. His first checkpoint is obviously to revisit the 1991 gubernatorial race when Fordice, the Republican businessman with no political experience, came from nowhere and upset Gov. Ray Mabus.

There have been several post-mortems about why Mabus, the heavy favorite, lost and Fordice, the darkhorse, won. The most obvious one that accounted for Mabus' loss was that if 25,000 more black voters had turned out, Mabus would have won.

Molpus strategists will logically thoroughly analyze the individual heavily black counties which came in with below expected voter turnouts in that election and find out what went wrong. Their job, of course, will be to correct it when Molpus takes on Fordice.

The phenomenon of Mississippi voting patterns is that while 900,000-plus voters turn out in presidential races, only a little over 700,000 voters have been participating in gubernatorial races. Who those dropout 200,000 voters are, and why they vote for president and not governor, is a mystery that has never been answered by any pollster or analyst.

However, it seems that the "mystery 200,000" are mostly white, conservative Mississippians who are turned on only by the excitement generated on television over presidential campaigns, not governor.

Looking back over the past four governor's races, it is apparent that there is a constant of around 350,000-360,000 voters who vote for the Democratic nominee. That hard core number has been sufficient for Democrats to win in other elections, but when Mabus dropped to 338,000 in 1991, he lost.

The Molpus campaign forces will have 16 months to scientifically erect their strategy to make certain that the 350,000 Democratic base is solid, and then to find where the needed cushion above that can be drawn to the polls and vote for their guy.

This, then is an unprecedented governor's race in prospect. One in which the candidates are known months ahead, and the battle can be mapped like a great chess game.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Businessman feels Highway 90 at Washington very dangerous

MDOT
Office of Highways
P. O. Box 551
Hattiesburg, MS 39403-0551

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to you to express my concern for the need of a traffic light at an intersection on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

The intersection which I feel is in desperate need of a traffic light is Washington Street.

I moved to the Bay St. Louis area five years ago and since that time I have seen and heard of various accidents at the intersection of Hwy. 90 and Washington Street.

However, as traffic has grown greatly in our area over the past year and continues to grow, the need for this traffic light has become essential.

Within the last six months two of my personally owned vehicles were involved in an accident at this intersection.

In both of these accidents someone pulled across the highway in front of my vehicles.

The first accident happened in November of 1993, when my secretary was driving, and someone pulled out in front of her. She was not injured, but the damage to my vehicle totaled around $1,500.

The second accident at this intersection involving one of my vehicles happened on May 14, 1994.

My wife was driving my pickup truck, and my 3-year-old daughter was a passenger. A man pulled from Washington Street into Hwy. 90 in front of my wife, and she could not avoid hitting him.

After the initial impact, the vehicle then went over the median and struck a vehicle stopped in the turn lane.

This was a very serious accident in which two people were seriously injured, one with a minor injury, two vehicles were totaled, and the third had considerable damage.

At the scene of the accident one of the officers informed me that there is a study underway at the present time to consider a traffic light at this intersection.

In my opinion, the study should have been done a long time ago, and the light should already be up and working.

I strongly believe that this intersection without a traffic light is a hazard to the citizens of our community as well as to the thousands of tourists we have coming to our area.

I am willing to do anything I can to speed up the process of getting a traffic light at this intersection.

I realize there are many factors that go into a study for a traffic light, but I hope that you will consider the previous accidents and the safety of our community as very important factors.

If there is anything I can do, please get in touch with me.

Casinos should look at locals for management jobs

To the Editor:

We read the many letters written by current and former employees of the casino industry. We can understand the need for the casinos to make a profit, but we cannot agree with the way they handle their assets, people.

The casino industry operates under the assumption Mississippi people are backward, uneducated and lazy. Quite to the contrary, we are the opposite!

True, we do not have years of experience with casinos, but we make up for it with our warm personable style and candid openness.

We work and can learn if taught, but we will not tolerate being mishandled. Unfortunately, the casino industry is under the misconception they're entrenched and can run over us, their workers.

The current trend is to displace the original employees and to import for the higher-paying and newly-created positions. Import mania is primarily occurring from Minnesota, Nevada and New Jersey.

Additionally, we find it unusual — to say the least — that so many British employees are in senior positions of management.

Why do our casinos continue to bring these people into Mississippi when in 18 months they should have created a pool of qualified technicians and professionals?

The reason, of course, is obvious. Casinos are hiring friends, associates or relatives. If you don't believe it, look around.

The internal bureaucracy of each casino is being enlarged and infused with imported executive staff.

The question is — who, or for what reason is this happening? Who is really in control? Why are people being treated like expendable commodities rather than assets?

Wake up! Smell the roses. Isn't this getting out of hand? First we are courted into establishing gaming, and now we are being displaced and abused.

Of the people you have known, how many have been promoted to upper-level management positions, especially at the corporate levels? Southern hospitality is being relegated to the lower end pay scale jobs. And those who have excelled and progressed are being systematically thrown away as pawns of the hierarchy.

It's time the casino leaders started dealing with their real problems; they need to quit listening to their managers and start getting employee input.

They need to go to the grass roots and understand concepts of total quality leadership. They must start fixing their own inability to deal with people.

These are the assets that will ultimately make them or break them, people.

Currently however, rather than solving the problem, they find it easier to dispose of them.

Ceremonies mark day at Post 77

Memorial Day ceremonies were held Monday at Bougeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77 in Waveland. Gold Star Mothers and Sisters, Agnes Ray, Myra Stieffel and Nell Stieffel Bourgeois were honored.

Those attending heard an address by guest speaker Colonel Carl Cucullu, vice-commander of the 403 Air Wing of the U.S. Air Force. He paid tribute to those who gave their lives when their country called them to serve, saying that "freedom isn't free."

"Thousands paid the price of freedom" with their lives, he told them.

He talked about the changes that have come about from World War I through Vietnam and how the "threats we face today are different" — Third World countries with nuclear capabilities, terrorist groups and how the economy dictates military spending. He said that peace and freedom is retained through military strength.

The audience reassembled outside the post to observe while Commander Elden Thomas and Unit 77 President Isabelle Crais placed a wreath at the monument outside.

Bravos to Kevin Bourg and Bradley Marks. Kevin, son of Jerry and Hilda Bourg of Diamondhead and a senior at the University of Southwest Louisiana in Lafayette, majoring in computer science, is on the dean's list and received the president's award as treasurer of his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta.

Bradley, 12 years old, is the son of Vicki and Wayne Marks, grandson of Fernand and Mildred Bougere, and great-grandson of Mrs. Elizabeth Dougan, all residents of Diamondhead. He was graduated from the 6th grade at St. Clare's in Waveland, receiving the Father Costello high academic award, the Alpha award for maintaining an A average, and the most courteous student award.

Much good luck to these young men in their future endeavors.

GOOD SAMARITAN

After a few years absence due to poor crops, "the Gladiola Man" is back. Philip Cary, owner of Cary Flower Farms in Bogalusa, La. had a wonderful season this year, so he has donated 2,500 flowers to aid Alzheimer's victims.

All of the money received from selling them went to the Alzheimer's Foundation.

Mr. Cary, through the years has furnished thousands of gladioli to benefit the fire department, other organizations, and to fill the urns in the Diamondhead Community Church.

Very few people have known where these flowers came from. Mr. Cary wanted no acclaim, and got very little. We owe this gentle man a great big thank-you for his generosity.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

Flexibility is the cornerstone of progress. Progress is impossible without change. Those who cannot change their minds will never be able to change anything.

MY THOUGHTS

Don't be afraid to follow your own star, even though it shines for no one else. Have a wonderful week.

Diamondhead Performing Arts presented the Big Band Era featuring the American Ballroom Dance Club and the 1940's Radio Hour at 7 p.m. Sunday. Paul Eckrich opened the Memorial Day weekend festivity by paying tribute to all veterans in the audience and dedicating the performance to them. Pictured are some of the talented young people from the show. (Photo by M. Williamson)

Speech winner

Kyla Gutierrez won first place in state competition for her speech entitled "Shaping Today for Tomorrow" at the recent 1994 Mississippi Association of Student Councils annual convention. The convention which was held at Hancock High, brought students from all over the state to the county. Speeches were given at the high school and junior high levels. Gutierrez is the daughter of Larry and Vicky Gutierrez of Diamondhead.

USM slates preview

The University of Southern Mississippi has scheduled seven summer orientation sessions to register new students, and acquaint them with the campus and its resources.

Students who have been admitted to USM and their parents are encouraged to attend one of the "Preview" sessions on the Hattiesburg campus June 16, 28 and 30; and July 9, 14, 21 and 28 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Preview fee is $30 per student — including lunch and supplies — and $10 per parent.

The sessions allow new students to meet their academic adviser, register for fall courses, review their transcripts, and check their financial aid status.

Students also will be introduced to such campus resources as libraries, computer labs, learning centers and health care facilities.

Parents will have an opportunity to speak with faculty members, and representatives from USM departments such as financial aid, public safety, residence life, student development and food services.

Check-in is at the R.C. Cook University Union for every session.

For information or to register, contact USM's Office of Recruitment and Orientation at (601) 266-5000.

USM beefs up correspondence credit offerings

The University of Southern Mississippi has added classes in biology, human performance and recreation and mathematics to its list of courses available through correspondence for college credit.

Courses in more than 20 subject areas are now offered for credit toward a university degree from USM's Office of Independent Study, said program coordinator Cliff Rudder.

Correspondence courses allow students to complete the work at their own pace, Rudder said. Students may take up to one year to complete the course work.

The cost of a three-hour course is $195. One-hour courses cost $65.

Examinations must be taken in person and proper identification must be shown, Rudder said, but assignments are to be completed at home by the student.

USM professors give assignments, grade examinations and assign course grades. Courses are offered in biology, criminal justice, economics, electronics engineering technology, engineering technology, English, general business administration, geography, health, history, home economics, human performance and recreation, management, marketing, mathematics, philosophy and religion, political science, psychology, real estate and insurance, sociology and anthropology and speech communication.

For more information, contact Kristi Sims at (601) 266-4195.

Award Ceremony

Mrs. Dauro's first grade class of Waveland Elementary, along with the rest of the first graders, received their special awards in a ceremony at the school May 20, 1994. All the students in all grades received some kind of an award for their achievements in citizenship, music, physical education, attendance and honor roll among others. These awards culminated the end of a successful school year according to principal Debbie Cox.

Literacy program set

The Summer Literacy Program for Children is set for June 8-23 at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast. The program is intended to help children in grades two through six who need help to improve their reading skills. Classes will be Monday through Thursday from 8:45 to 10 a.m. The program is sponsored by the USM-Gulf Coast Education and Psychology Department. All classes will take place at the Holloway Complex on the Gulf Park campus in Long Beach. For registration and information, call 865-4512.

Trinity Episcopal offers summer camp

Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian will have three summer day camps for boys and girls 4-8 years old. Themes are "Native Americans" (June 13-17), "Colors of the Rainbow" (June 27-July 1), and "Water, Water Everywhere" (July 18-22). Hours are 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Thursday, and later on Fridays due to special field trips and picnics. Activities include field trips, music, games, arts and crafts, creative cooking, stories and movies and water sports. For information, call Martha Burdette, 452-7180 or Phyllis Brack, 467-0458.

Give summer job your best effort

"It seems the only jobs teens can get in the summer are ones that pay really low wages. We work hard, too, sometimes harder than adults doing a similar job and making more money. How can teens find summer jobs that will pay them what they're worth?"

Most people who are employed would like to make more money than they're making. There are a number of reasons people in temporary positions tend to earn less than regular, full-time employees.

It costs the employer time and money to train employees and then they only get two or three months of work for the money invested.

Some part-time or short-term employees demonstrate a low level of interest in the success of the business and a much higher level of concern for wages and benefits.

Sometimes people with poor work attitudes and habits make it hard on other summer job applicants who want to work and make a contribution to the success of the business.

TEEN TALK

As you consider summer employment, enter the job market with the idea to do your best at whatever task you're assigned.

Keep in mind that you are creating a work history that will go with you from now on whenever you apply for a job. I believe that most future employers will look at the kinds of responsibilities you've carried out and how responsibly you've done them, rather than what your rate of pay may have been.

"I worry a lot about all the violence around me — especially among kids. Sometimes I feel it's not safe to say anything to anybody — especially to disagree — or even to look at anybody. If you smile, people may interpret it as a smirk; if you frown, they may think it's a personal insult. You almost have to keep to yourself in order to stay

By Dr. Ann Jarratt
4-H Youth Development Specialist
Cooperative Extension Service

out of trouble. Can you help?" I certainly wish I could help. There are a lot of people, adults included, who worry about the violence but don't know what to do about it.

Here's what I think would be an ideal answer. I wish mothers and fathers would demonstrate positive problem solving to their children in the home and in their relationships with each other.

When conflicts arise, I wish they would openly acknowledge the problem and talk together about solutions. They would use positive communication techniques, and actively listen and summarize the meaning of what someone has said before responding.

If I had my wish, children would be taught ways to resolve disagreements with brothers and sisters in non-violent, non-hostile ways.

Linda Vayda

Teacher of the Year Hancock North Central Elementary

Teacher of the Year representing the Hancock County School District and Teacher of the Year representing Hancock North Central Elementary grades K-3 is Linda D. Vayda.

Mrs. Vayda earned a BS degree at Clarion State College and expects to receive her master's from the University of Southern Mississippi in August 1994.

She has taught kindergarten for eight years. She is a member of SECA (Southern Early Childhood Association), M'Macus (local affiliation of SECA), Kappa Delta Pi (Honorary Society in Education) and the National Honor Society.

She has served as church organist, youth director, Sunday School/Vacation teacher and volunteer teacher during the Summer Education Program for Native American children on the Crow Indian Reservation in Montana.

Her extra-curricular activities include informal presentations on strategies for kindergarten teachers, staff development workshops, organizer/participant in various educational field trips and has written grant proposals and received funding for the construction of five kindergarten classrooms from the Mississippi Power Foundation.

She is an active member of the District Public Relations Committee, Principal's Advisory Committee and Guidance Counseling Advisory Committee.

Mrs. Vayda created and directed the "HNCE Kindergarten Circus," which involved 120 children for each performance and was coordinator of the HNCE Christmas program.

Vayda said, "I believe it is important to provide a literate-rich and student-centered environment that encourages learning through the natural growth and development of the child."

"Meaningful learning experiences which employ developmental skills (using various learning styles) nurture the acquisition of knowledge in a natural way. I believe it is important to incorporate many hands-on activities, cooperative group projects, problem solving and decision-making experiences, and projects involving the children's parents."

"I think large group, small group, and individual activities should be incorporated every day. The learning environment must reflect the importance and acceptance of every child, regardless of the child's ability, ethnic background, or social-economic status."

"Finally, as educators observe other classrooms, attend educational classes and workshops, try new teaching methods and strategies, and share successful ideas with one another. We must realize that we (educators) are a team, working to combine our talents and resources for the benefit of our children."

Hancock Junior High

Teacher of the Year representing Hancock Junior High is Beth Mestayer. Ms. Mestayer earned a BC degree in Elementary Education at the University of Mississippi, a master's in special education at the University of Colorado and 15 additional hours at Emporia State University.

She has taught special education for 20 years. Ms. Mestayer is a member of the Mississippi Professional Educators, Delta Kappa Gamma and second vice-president of the Women's Educational Society.

She was named Junior High Teacher of the Year in 1991 and Teacher of the Year in 1977 at the El Dorado Public Schools in Arkansas.

She serves as a board member of the Toy Library (toys adapted for handicapped children), chairman of the School Improvement Committee and is a member of the District Public Relations Committee.

Ms. Mestayer said, "First of all, I never look at my students as a class, but as a group of individuals with different needs. It is essential to make learning vital and realistic while stressing the following objectives: improving human relationships, building economic efficiency and encouraging civic responsibility."

"It is equally important to prepare students for self-education that continues throughout their lifetime. Finally, my philosophy of education requires instilling in my students the understanding that education improves the quality of their lives, as well as those around them."

Beth Mestayer

Top Teachers Hancock County Schools announce Teachers of Year

Gulfview Elementary

Teacher of the Year representing Gulfview Elementary is Patricia LaFontaine. Ms. LaFontaine earned a BS degree in history at the University of Southern Mississippi.

During her 21-year career in education, she has taught grades four through 12.

She is a member of the Mississippi Professional Educators and was named OLA Star Teacher in 1975.

An active member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, she teaches sixth grade CCD and is a member of the RCIA team. She has served as co-sponsor of the Beta Club for five years.

Ms. LaFontaine said, "The ancient Greek philosopher and teacher, Aristotle, once said, 'All who have meditated on the art of governing human beings have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth!'"

"Still today, over 2,000 years later, the future of our tomorrow depends on the youth of today. It is our calling as educators to prepare our children to seek their own place in the world by learning how to live a good, useful life. We must stimulate their curiosity, their open-heartedness and their zest for life and learning."

"Let my teaching fall like rain and my words descend like dew, like showers on new grass, like abundant rain in tender plants." Deuteronomy 32:2

"I teach in praise of our Lord Jesus Christ, the greatest teacher of all times."

One teacher was selected to represent each school in the Hancock County School District as "Teacher of the Year" based on the following requirements: They should have the respect and admiration of students, parents and co-workers. They should play active and useful roles in their communities, as well as in their schools.

Leadership qualities are also an important consideration. A committee then selects one outstanding Teacher of the Year to represent the Hancock County School District.

potential to learn. Every child should be given every opportunity to develop their potential to the maximum."

"Each school year brings with it new challenges and fresh opportunities for each of us to grow. If, at the end of the year, you can look back and see that the students have achieved the goals you set, then this has been a successful year."

Billy Ray Dedeaux

"Every student in our school system has the ability to reach out and use these opportunities with the right guidance and education. As teachers, we must encourage students and use innovative skills and techniques to teach our students to be productive citizens of today's society."

"Today's students are beyond learning only the basics of yesterday. As educators, we must grow educationally ourselves to be able to improve the classroom process so as to allow students to be fully stimulated and motivated."

"All students should be provided with the necessary knowledge and skills to live and excel in our global world."

Lucy Mitchell

Adams said, "In our society, failures are often the result of the lack of individual responsibility for actions. This can result in many lost opportunities."

As teachers we have a key opportunity to stop this cycle of failure. Therefore, it is my belief, as a teacher, that all students, no matter their age, can be taught to be responsible, independent and creative individuals so that a positive perspective of the self will remain with our students throughout their adult lives.

"Teaching students to have faith in themselves is part of the educational process. Education should encourage students' belief in themselves not discourage this belief."

"School should be the most rewarding part of their life process, and as an early child care teacher my philosophy is 'a great beginning sets the pace for lifelong learning.'"

Girl Scouts hold badge workshop

Shawn Prychitko
Bay St. Louis
The Bay-Waveland District held a special badge workshop
recently at Buccaneer State Park for their younger sister Girl Scouts.

The Senior Cadettes planned the event and taught the Brownies and Junior Girl Scouts the skills needed to earn a badge.
The leaders were free to enjoy watching the girls have fun learning from their peers. The event involved eight troops with 62 Brownies, 15 Juniors and 15 adults attending.

The Brownie Girl Scouts learned about characteristics of water to earn their "Water Everywhere" badge. They made their own bubble maker from straws and yarn and blew some awesome bubbles.

They tried their hand at bubble art on paper and also made a water snooper, which they submerged into a pail to view some saltwater creatures

one may find out in the Sound.

The Junior Girl Scouts sang and earned their "Music Lovers" badge. They had to paint what they felt while listening to music from eras like the Roaring Twenties to Disco and drew clothing that went with those times. They also learned to line dance and constructed cardboard tube kazoo's.

The Senior Cadettes were working on a requirement toward their silver and gold awards. Susie Robinson earned her gold and Cadette leadership awards.

Girls earning silver and Cadette leadership awards were Jennifer Clark, Claudette
Garcia, Sara Mason, Chrissy
Richard, Dawn Stever and Unita Twiggs.

Sarah Grover earned her Cadette leadership award, and Valerie Knight earned her senior certificate.

Additional Cadette helpers were Alelyse Belson, Rebecca Landry, Robin Mason, Jenny
Oliver and Jennifer Smith.

Water creatures

Whitney Thomas, center, and the Brownies view water creatures through their handmade snoopers.

Music appreciation

Misti Summers, Kristen Ladner and Mary Jo Cook display pictures that depict the way they felt when they listened to a particular piece of music.

Snoopers

Senior Cadettes Troop 27 Susie Robinson, assistant leader Sue Grover and Robin Mason work with snoopers made from tin cans.
The girls attached plastic wrap secured with rubber bands to the end to construct the snoopers.

Bubble makers

Brownies blow bubbles with bubblemakers that they made themselves.

Bay St. Louis area host families needed

Foreign high school students will be arriving soon in the Bay St. Louis area for academic semester and year homestays, and the sponsoring organization needs a few more local host families.

According to Pacific Intercultural Exchange (PIE) executive director, John Doty, the students are all between the ages of 15 and 18, are English-speaking, have their own spending money, carry accident and health insurance, and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families.

PIE currently has programs to match almost every family's needs, ranging in length from a semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local high schools.

Families who host for PIE are eligible to claim a $50 per month charitable contribution deduction on their itemized tax returns for each month they host a sponsored student.

For the upcoming programs,
PIE has students from Spain,
Germany, Poland, Russia, Finland, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Paraguay, Australia, New Zealand, Croatia and many other countries.

PIE has also been invited to participate in a special government-funded program to bring scholarship students from the Newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union to the United States.

Bay St. Louis area families interested in learning more about student exchange or arranging for a meeting with a community representative may call PIE, toll-free at 1-800-631-1818.

The agency also has travel/
study program opportunities available for American high school students as well as possibilities for community volunteers to assist and work with area host families, students and schools.

Winn-Dixie celebrates 69 years in business

This month marks the 69th anniversary of Winn-Dixie Stores Inc.

The company, which was started by the late W. M. Davis in 1925 with the Rockmoor Grocery store in Miami, Fla., now operates more than 1,150 stores in 13 states. The announcement was made by Keith Lavigne, marketing director, Winn-Dixie Louisiana.

With each passing year, the people of Winn-Dixie work harder to serve our customers," said Lavigne. "The success of Winn-Dixie over the past 69 years is directly related to our commitment to offer our customers quality products at the lowest possible prices. We are determined to maintain that policy for the next 69 years and beyond."

After their humble beginnings in 1925, W. M. Davis and his four sons — A.D., J.E., M.A. and T.W. — worked together to build the Table Supply Stores chain which was comprised of 34 stores in 1934.

After W. M. Davis' death in 1934, his four sons assumed management of the company. In 1939, 78 more stores were added with the purchase of the Winn and Lovett Grocery Company in Florida and Georgia.

After World War II, the brothers purchased stores in Kentucky, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and South Carolina. In 1955, the Davis-run Winn and Lovett Grocery Company consolidated with the Dixie Home Stores in the Carolinas and became Winn-Dixie Stores Inc. Since then more stores have been acquired in North and South Carolina, Louisiana and Alabama.

Today, Winn-Dixie operates stores in Florida, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Virginia, Texas and Oklahoma.

Approximately 100,000 associates work for Winn-Dixie. The company is currently working to build new and better stores throughout the South.

"The backbone of Winn-Dixie's success is our many loyal associates," Lavigne added. "Without their dedication, this anniversary would not be possible."

Winn-Dixie Stores Inc. is one of the nation's largest supermarket retailers with over 1,150 stores in 13 southeastern and southwestern states. Winn-Dixie Louisiana operates 92 stores in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Dairy product dates serve as guidelines

By Bethany L. Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications

It's breakfast time, and as you pour milk into your coffee cup or cereal bowl, the date stamped on the carton informs you that the milk will expire — yesterday. Is the milk still safe and fresh enough to drink?

"If a dairy product has been stored properly, it should be good for five to seven days past the date on the carton or box," said Dr. Barbara McLaurin, extension nutrition specialist at MSU.

"Dairy products are perishable, so if the freshness of milk is questionable, test a small amount by smelling it checking for signs of clabber."

The expiration date's main purpose is to help grocery retailers ensure that consumers are getting fresh, high-quality dairy products.

Milk and cream are some of the most perishable dairy products, but they are safe to use after the expiration date if they are kept refrigerated at about 40 degrees.

Milk or cream that has reached room temperature should not be poured back into its original container.

"Use buttermilk within five days of purchase for best flavor," McLaurin said. "Like yogurt and sour cream, it becomes more tart with age."

Refrigerated yogurt can be kept up to 15 days. Separation in yogurt is normal, so just stir the liquid back into the thick mixture before use.

Sour cream also keeps well when refrigerated properly, up to three weeks. Peak flavor lasts only a week, but to help make it last longer, turn the carton upside down when storing to keep air from entering the carton.

"Natural cheeses and cured cheeses also will keep for several weeks if refrigerated in an airtight package or wrapping," McLaurin said.

"Unopened, vacuum sealed cheeses will keep indefinitely, and so will properly frozen cheese."

The original wrapping for cheeses, foil and sealable plastic all make good protective wrappings.

National Guard offering Youth Challenge Program

The Mississippi National Guard is offering a 17-month Youth Challenge Program for youths 16-18 years, male and female, who have dropped out of school, an opportunity to change their lives.

The program, beginning August 6, consists of a five-month residential phase where they will learn leadership, self-discipline and responsibility while working to complete high school requirements (GED).

Students will live and study in a military environment, which encourages teamwork and personal growth.

A second 12-month phase will consist of assisting in job placement or entering vocational/trade school, technical education or college.

Successful graduates of the first phase who enter phase two receive $2,200.

The five-month residential phase is held at the Mississippi National Guard's largest training facility, Camp Shelby, 12 miles south of Hattiesburg.

Students will live in military barracks and have access to a variety of modern classrooms, training resources and athletic fields.

All personal needs, such as meals, bedding and uniforms are provided. There is no cost for this program. Participants will be paid $15 a week to offset small personal expenses and to provide practical skills in money management. Although administered by the National Guard, there is no military obligation.

"There will not be many times in life that you are offered a second chance — the Youth Challenge Program is one of them. Where it will lead you is up to you, but you will control your own destiny," said Sgt. Kim Schaefer.

Applications and further information are available at the National Guard Armory on Longfellow St. in Bay St. Louis, or call SSG William J. Overal or SGT Kim K. Schaefer at 467-4681 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., or call the school at 1-800-507-6253.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Tim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The last few weeks have been somewhat hectic and I must apologize to the fishin' buddies for not printing complete fishin' reports.

I had a son get married in a foreign country. I brought my passport along, but they told me at the airport that the foreign country of Dallas, Texas did not require a passport for entry, just a driver's license.

I spent a lot of additional time away from fishin' activity involved at commission meetings with BMR. This was a very confusing experience, as credibility seemed to have gone east with the geese at those meetings.

Anyway, at the last commission meeting the date for the shrimp season was set for June 8. I think. The way the date for the opening was set was a pure judgement call as to when the shrimp would be 100 mm in length.

There were charts presented that had lines showing the projected date when the shrimp should be the right length — somewhere.

The charts showed that shrimp grow fastest in higher salinity. The salinity was the lowest in the Waveland test area.

This should mean that the shrimp will be bigger the further east you go. The confusing part came when the biologist stated the growth rate is not predictable.

The shrimp are growing very fast now, but their rate slows down as they approach 100 mm in length. Then again they sometimes do not slow down in growth. There was nothing to show how large a sample was taken, nor where the sample was taken that I saw on the charts.

After the setting of the opening date of shrimp season action was taken that is sure to build up the storm clouds big time plenty. There will be public hearings on a new ordinance which will, if enacted, reduce the size of the red fish that you can catch from the current size of 22 inches to 16 inches.

The ordinance will allow a commercial fisherman to keep the same number of redfish that the recreational fisherman can currently keep — three fish.

The commissioner for the Coast had requested at the April 94 meeting, Mr. Van Devender of BMR prepare an ordinance to make the size limit on redfish comparable to our neighboring states and bring it to the May 94 meeting.

Mr. Van Devender brought in charts, biologists from GSRL and an ordinance making the size limit 2 inches larger than our neighboring states.

This action generated a certain degree of consternation on the part of the commissioners because it did not appear that it conformed to their orders of April 94.

There was much discussion of the charts and tables as questioning revealed no acceptable answer as to where the samples were taken.

Hearings on new redfish ordinance coming up soon

No numbers were given as to the size of the sample. No specific area was given as to where the sample was taken. No data was given as to the projected escapement and recruitment rates on the 16-inch size level.

It was stated that the 22-inch size limit has increased the numbers of red fish because it offered escapement and recruitment levels approaching 100 percent.

This confirms what the fishin' buddies have been saying for several years, that the 22-inch size limit was put in to effectively close inshore fishing for red fish.

It is interesting to note that at least one report from Louisiana claims their escapement rates exceed 60 percent with their size limit of 16 inches.

I am told the federal redfish plan requires 30 percent escapement and recruitment rates.

Recruitment and escapement means how many fish leave the inshore area to join the offshore breeding stock of large fish. It appears that the fish need to be 22 inches or larger to go offshore and become breeding stock.

The major reason the big schools of offshore breeding stock are so depleted is they congregate in large schools. This made them easy prey for net fishermen.

Whole schools were caught, to the last fish, by net fishermen in the blackened red fish craze of a few years ago.

BMR had no effective plan to control this commercial slaughter, so the federal government stepped in and mandated they formulate a plan to ensure about a 30 percent recruitment rate to replenish the breeding stock.

Now for the real storm cloud part of this new redfish ordinance. Commercial fishermen will only be allowed three redfish, the same as sport fishermen.

It seems that Mississippi is the only state with a 35,000 pound commercial harvest on redfish. The commercial fisheries are supposed to tell MBR when the 35,000 pounds have been caught, and BMR will close down the commercial harvest of redfish.

That this system has not worked too well in the past is an understatement. There was a "sting" operation recently that found over 87,000 pounds of redfish in just one commercial fishery in just one day. So folks say, where there is smoke there is fire.

There were commercial fishermen present who made the point that they supply fish to people in other parts of the state that can't fish. They said they needed to fish to support their families.

Ray Lanaze of GCCA got up and said that with a commercial quota of 35,000 pounds, with an average dockside price of $1 per pound, and 100 or less gill net license issued at $100 per license, the commercial harvest of redfish produces less than $50,000, compared to the recreational fisheries producing 15 or 20 million dollars. The numbers don't compute.

Hearings should be coming up real soon on this new redfish ordinance. There will be thunder, lightning and rain plenty. Make sure you attend, because your input is important.

On to the catching of fish; there are several white stakes in the water a little ways out in front of St. Clare Church. The reports coming in claim the trout are really mad at live shrimp in this location. It seems that folks have been catching 20 or 30 trout per boat all week in this spot.

Wade fishing off the beaches has really picked up and is producing nice catches using live shrimp.

The Louisiana Marsh still is still producing big numbers of fish on either live bait or artificials.

This week's wonderful, wise words: The new commission is coming July 1.

Do red fish really create thunder and lightning, Turtle?

Pilot group is forming

The Mississippi Gulf Coast is adding an innovative service club to its roster of civic groups.

Pilot International is made up of business and community leaders who support a service focus on brain-related disorders such as developmental disabilities, Alzheimer's disease and chemical dependency.

Members of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter will decide locally which projects to adopt.

The club will recruit volunteers who need to limit their time commitment outside of professional and family activities, but who are still anxious to be part of a community service network.

Pilot was organized in 1921 as a service club for working women and currently attracts career-oriented individuals who prefer "hands-on" service projects.

An organizational meeting is planned for noon June 30 at the Opal Smith Fellowship Center on Harrison Circle in Gulfport. All past and prospective members are invited. For more information, call Donna De Weese at 867-6251.
